THE BRIDGES INITIATIVES INC.

Outlook

Four Corporate goals will dominate the third quarter:

Public Market Financing - Bridges intends to raise funds to support an aggressive marketing strategy to North American schools in 1998.

Internal Sales Staff Expansion - The U.S. school market has several funding sources ideally suited to a career-related Internet product like Career Explorer. Internal sales staff have proven to be the most effective means to sell our product. Bridges plans to increase the number of internal sales staff to focus on securing a significant market share in the emerging Internet education market.

Continuous Growth of New Subscribers - In addition to the continued growth of our subscriber base, Bridges will pursue new markets, including American One-Stop Employment Centres and public libraries. Sixty new sites are projected for the third quarter.

Product Development - The BC career news service will be introduced in the third quarter. Career Explorer will continue to be upgraded. A self-employment training program and set of Web publishing tools will be developed for students and teachers in the Central Okanagan School District.

THE BRIDGES INITIATIVES INC.

CEO's Message

For the first six months ending May 31, 1997, The Bridges Initiatives Inc. reported an operating profit of $224,751. Revenues of $743,972 were reported with operating expenditures of $519,221. Management is very pleased with our sales performance in the second quarter of 1997. One hundred and eighty-two new subscribers were added, matching projections of 180 for the period. New subscriptions for 1997 total 284, the majority coming from the American school market. Revenues were also generated in the second quarter from alternative sources. $187,000 was invoiced for sites re-subscribing to the Career Explorer service. Contracts with BC WorkInfoNet and the Central Okanagan School District generated $208,169 in invoices.

Bridges' second quarter was marked by the following developments:

Bridges continues to introduce Career Explorer to new jurisdictions — expanding into 11 new regions during the quarter. Twenty-five states, seven provinces and two territories have sites using the service.

The province of British Columbia became the first region to purchase Bridges' new regionalized career news service. Beginning in July of this year, Bridges will produce a daily, BC-specific edition of Career Explorer's news service. It will be provided free each day through the BC WorkInfoNet Web site.

Bridges and the Central Okanagan School District will co-develop a youth training program in self-employment and Web site production. Bridges will create the Web publishing structure, train students and teachers in business development, and provide on-going technical assistance. It is the first example of Bridges packaging and marketing its Internet publishing expertise.

Bridges' management have completed a plan for market expansion. Internal sales staff have proven to be the most effective means for marketing Career Explorer to the North American market. Public financing will be considered in the third quarter to more aggressively pursue the emerging opportunities in the American school marketplace.
