

What's New for Career Futures

This year Career Futures has undergone few changes, reflecting the shift in customer preferences toward products that are delivered online. We continue to enhance both our CD-ROM software and our online products, with an emphasis on database updates for Career Futures this year.

Updated Occupational Database

The Career Futures Occupational Database has been updated with the most current information available. Some occupations have been removed or added, and some data has been updated.

New Download Process

In order to streamline the installation process, Career Futures software customers may download their Career Futures software directly at www.bridges.com. This download process enables customers to receive their Career Futures software sooner and will simplify software installation.

Common Authentication

This year Bridges will be introducing common authentication across all of our online products. This enhancement has been requested by many of our customers, and will allow us to harmonize every site's subscriptions beneath one set of access codes at a shared login portal located at www.bridges.com.

For Career Futures software customers, this enhancement will allow sites to use the same credentials or automatically transfer their Career Futures Site ID and Password over to Choices Planner or Choices Explorer should they choose to eventually add or switch to Bridges' online products.
